he shows how these 1997 cases relate to two other famous cases karen ann quinlan and nancy beth cruzan and carries the controversy up to the recent trials of dr jack keuvorkian urofsky considers the many facets of this knotty argument he differentiates between discontinuation of medical treatment assisted suicide and active euthanasia and he sensitively examines the issue s social and religious contexts to enable readers to see both sides of the dispute he also shows that in its ruling the supreme court did not slam the door on the subject but left it ajar by allowing states to legislate on the matter as oregon has already done by treating assisted suicide simply as a legal question observes urofsky we miss the real importance of the issue claim was that he had faced a conflict of duties pitting his legal duty not to kill against his duty as a physician to relieve his patient s unbearable suffering he was acquitted on the important grounds of conflict of duty these grounds are based on a concept in dutch law called force majeure 4 which recognizes extenuating circumstances such as conflicts of duty the acquittal was upheld by the lower court of alkmaar but revoked by an amsterdam court of appeal the case went on to the supreme court but before the supreme court s decision was issued the royal dutch medical association rdma attempted to clarify the criteria for euthanasia that many within the profession already accepted the rdma proposed that physicians be permitted to perform euthanasia provided that a set of procedures had been met variously stated the guidelines contain the following central provisions voluntary competent explicit and persistent requests on the part of the patient requests based on full information the patient is in a situation of intolerable and hopeless suffering either physical or mental no further acceptable alternatives to euthanasia all alternatives acceptable to the patient for relief of suffering having been tried consultation with at least one other physician whose judgment can be 5 expected to be independent indirectly these guidelines became the criteria prosecutors used to decide whether or not to bring charges most of us spend a fair amount of time trying to avoid responsibility that s not too astounding what is surprising says peter french is that we tend to dodge the good variety as well as the bad
